

Scientific Program

Introduction

Since the 1st announcement of "GeoShanghai International Conference 2010" was released, we have received strong support from International geotechnical communities. More than 660 abstracts and 480 full papers from over 30 countries have been received. About 400 technical papers will be accepted for conference presentation and for publication in 8 ASCE GSPs (Geotechnical Special Publication) after rigorous peer reviews. The conference will be held during June 3-5, 2010 in Shanghai, China.

Program

Technical sessions will last for three days consisting of invited keynote lectures, theme lectures and delegate presentations. In addition, the conference will include coffee breaks, lunches, a welcome reception, a banquet, and a tour to the construction site of the Shanghai Tower or the Shanghai Expo site. The scientific program and conference tours have been arranged and can be found in this brochure.
